

STATE TO REDUCE COLLEGE BUDGET

BUILDING PLAN AT O. S. U. AND OTHERS HALT

Representative Mooney, of Logan, Announces Plan of House

MUST CUT EXPENSES

Programs to Be Held Up For Two Years

BY H. EARL WILSON.

COLUMBUS, May 19.—Fearless expense-cutting by the house of representatives finance committee has slashed $3,000,000 from the biennial budget requests of state-supported colleges and universities and the state department of education, it was revealed here today.

Ohio State, Miami and Wilberforce universities and Bowling Green State colleges will be required to abandon most of their building ambitions and delay scheduled salary boosts for at least two years under a program to be recommended by the committee's education division.

"CLAMP DOWN"

By "clamping down" on schools demanding millions of dollars for new buildings, the education division, according to Sub-Chairman Kenneth C. Ray (R) of McConnellsville, has been able to pare requests to $31,000,000, although Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper asked $34,000,000 in his executive budget.

These figures, the first indication of what the long-awaited finance committee's budget bill will look like, were disclosed to International News Service today when Chairman L. P. Mooney (R) of Logan summoned division heads together today and again ordered further reductions.

Despite weeks of work in whitewashing budget demands, the requests are still "several millions" too high, Chairman Mooney complained to sub-chairmen of the education, welfare and general divisions.

So far the three divisions have been unable to reduce their total expenditures to the $70,000,000 limit previously agreed upon by the committee, Mooney said.

Although the education division returned to work to make further cuts here and there, Sub-Chairman Ray declared that the education requests were already cut almost to the danger-point.

"CUT TO BONE"

Specific orders to "cut to the bone" were issued to the general division, which handles all requests except those dealing with welfare and education.

Visits to various welfare institutions convinced the welfare division, it was reported, that at least $23,000,000 will be required for the biennium, $4,000,000 of which would be spent for new buildings.

Sub-Chairman H. A. Baldwin (R) of Wadsworth, was still unwilling to reveal how the funds would be distributed under the division's proposal.

"Nearly all the buildings asked by the colleges and universities would be held up for the biennium if our program is accepted," Representative Ray said in explaining the education division recommendations.

One such building, he intimated, would be a requested new residence for the president of Kent State college, Miami, Ohio State and Wilberforce were said to have asked various buildings which would be denied.

From another source it was learned that the education division may be willing to allow $125,000 for a woman's athletic building at Bowling Green. Private contributors have donated a sum equal to that figure, it was said. Approximately $60,000 also would be granted for a power plant there.

Dormitories and swimming pools at that school probably would be rejected and the total request for the biennium at that school—$1,200,000—would be cut to half that figure, it was reported.

HEAT PROSTRATES RAYMOND PETERS

Raymond Peters of this city, workman for J. D. Van Gundy, Lancaster contractor, is the first heat prostration victim reported this year. He was taken to Lancaster city hospital Monday after being overcome and was reported as resting comfortably.

"Jackers'" Victim

Even foreign legations in Washington, with their stocks of privileged liquor, are not sacred to hijackers. Dr. Don Carlos Leiva (above), counselor and charge d'affaires of the El Salvador Legation was knocked half unconscious by hijackers rifling the legation's choice liquor supply when he resisted their command to raise his hands. The hijackers, fearing capture when Senor Leiva escaped, left behind 10 cases of liquors which they had carried from the wine cellar to the yard. This is the first time on record that hijackers violated the sanctity of international law.

ORPHAN TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

13-Year-Old Boy Frets at Being Orphan, Hangs Self at Farm Home Today

Tiffin, O., May 19.—Heart aches of a homeless 13-year-old orphan ended in death by hanging today for Glen Martin, a former ward of the Erie-co Children's Home at Sandusky.

The boy's body was found hanging by a rope in an out-building on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. August Stahl, who recently gave him a "trial" with the promise of adoption if his behavior proved satisfactory.

Although Coroner P. T. Perion declared death was unquestionably caused by suicide, Mr. and Mrs. Stahl were unable to account for his act, except the youth's worries over being homeless. They said they planned to adopt him soon.

NEGRO SOUGHT AFTER ATTACK

Farmers, Sheriff Search Woods For Attacker of White Woman in Michigan

SAGINAW, Mich., May 19.—A posse of farmers armed with shot guns, shovels and pitch forks is combing a woods, four miles north of here, today for an unidentified negro, who, they allege attacked a white woman, Mrs. Daisy Gethan, 25, in her home here.

The posse hurriedly organized by the Sheriff is bolstered in strength by ten deputy sheriffs.

AIDS PINNED DRIVER

Burl Greenlee, local livestock hauler, probably saved the life of Dick Hartough of South Perry, Sunday, when the latter was pinned under his automobile on the Sloan hill on the Laurelville-rd in Hocking-co.

Hartough's car overturned and pinned him under it. His predicament was not discovered until sometime later when Greenlee, driving past the site, stopped his car and released the man. Hartough's face was pinned into the ground. He had the use of one arm, however, which enabled him to scoop out a place beneath his face so he could breathe.

He was not seriously injured.

YEAR BOOK IS ON SALE WEDNESDAY

"The Annual," the year book of Circleville high school will be distributed at the school at noon Wednesday. Over 300 copies have been printed by Fitzpatrick's Printery. The price of 75c is the lowest ever recorded at the school. The 1931 year book was made possible by a large number of business and professional men in the city.

REDUCE TAXES, NEED MONEY, GET IT WHERE?

Re-appraisal of Property to Call for Funds to Make Up Difference

MAY HIT SCHOOLS

State Warns of Hiring Teachers Too Soon

With a re-appraisal of property expected to reduce taxes in Circleville and Pickaway-co between 20 and 30 percent, the question of "where will additional revenue come from" is foremost in the minds of officials. It is taken for granted that taxes will be cut but a certain amount of money is needed to operate the county during the year.

What will be the source of this additional revenue when property tax is lowered?

With the state department of education warning local boards of education throughout the state to be careful about employing teachers for the 1931-1932 term, it would appear that the schools of Ohio might bear the brunt of the lowered real estate tax. Figures in the county auditor's office disclose that out of every dollar turned in as tax, 55 cents goes to schools of the city and the county.

SYSTEM EXCELLENT

Ohio's system of education, with centralized schools providing every advantage to rural pupils that city pupils have, is envied by numerous states in surrounding territories. Numerous fields of study are offered students of today which were denied those of an older generation, but all these fine advantages must cost money. Whether an effort to cut school expenses within the cities, counties and the state as a whole, will be attempted is not known, but legislators and public officials throughout Ohio are giving the proposition their utmost attention in an effort to solve this problem.

PLANS FORWARDED

While many are wondering where additional money is coming from, County Auditor Cliff White and Deputy Auditor Tom D. Kinn are investigating a list of Circleville and Pickaway-co men eligible to re-appraise property. This is no easy task for the persons selected to do the work are entrusted with an important mission. Land in the county must be appraised as near its true value as possible and irresponsible persons are not all suited for the job. The auditor's office does not plan to move until it is certain whether men selected are capable of performing the task assigned them.

PRISON TRIAL JURY IS SET

Both Sides Have Peremptories Left After Box Is Filled; Grate On Trial

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—A jury of four women and eight men was seated in Franklin-co criminal court here shortly before noon today for the trial of Clinton Grate, 31-year-old penitentiary convict, charged with first degree murder in connection with the starting of the Easter Monday fire at the prison on a year ago.

Opposing counsel still have the privilege of exercising six peremptory challenges each. In testing the jury set up it was expected the attorneys would take advantage of the challenges when court reconvenes after the noon recess.

Taking testimony in the case if the challenges are exercised will probably be delayed until tomorrow or possibly Thursday it was indicated.

BLACK IS NAMED ROSS ENGINEER

John O. Black, of Kingston, was appointed by the Ross-co board of commissioners to fill the unexpired term of the late Ben Walker. Ross-co engineer Mr. Black's appointment for the office had the unanimous endorsement of the Republican executive committee, which also asked that Frank Haynes, of Kingston, be named deputy, the position he held under Walker.

Army Air Force Goes to Chicago

FAIRFIELD AIR DEPOT, OHIO, May 19.—Old man weather grounded the army air corps here today and threatened to prevent a projected aerial review of 672 planes over Chicago Tomorrow morning.

FAIRFIELD, Ohio, May 19.—The army tackled the job of moving its air forces en masse from one field of operations to another today as the 72 plane formation which has trained here for the biggest air demonstration in history taxied to the line and prepared to take off for Chicago.

An overland jaunt of 300 odd miles, the movement of the giant division will not only provide the midwestern metropolis and dozens of cities along the flying route with a spectacle never seen before, but will show the nation's military leaders just how such a tremendous

MAINE WOODS GIVE UP BODY

Wealthy Massachusetts Rubber Magnate Found—Missing Six Months

SKOWHEGAN, Me., May 19.—The great north woods of Maine today had given up a secret, locked within it for more than six months, with the discovery two miles over the Canadian border, in the St. Cherefield forest, of the body of Mitchell B. Kaufman, 37-year-old bachelor and wealthy Massachusetts rubber magnate.

Sheriff Elton L. Markham, of Somerset-co, after receiving a report from James Muirhead, director of searching guides who found the body said that Kaufman apparently had died of exhaustion as there were no bullet wounds or signs of violence about the body. Kaufman had walked nine miles through the dense forest and, overcome by fatigue, had lain down and with one arm across his breast and the other at his side, had passed away in his sleep.

The discovery of Kaufman, who disappeared on November 5, 1930, while on a hunting trip with two companions, at a camp on Crocker pond, in Jackman, was made by three guides, Farnsworth J. "Teddy" Wilson, Lawrence Hughey, and Harry Hughey. Identification was by clothing.

Albert H. Wechsler, brother-in-law of the rubber magnate, hurried today from Boston to make positive identification and claim the body.

LOCAL COURT NEWS

NOGGLE WILL Her husband, Peter Noggle of Walnut-twp, is given the entirety of the estate of the late Amanda E. Noggle of Ashville, according to the will filed in probate court Tuesday. The estate is valued at $4,000.

Mr. Noggle is given all real and personal property of every kind, according to the will, which was written May 25, 1903, in the presence of G. W. and Blanche Morrison of Ashville.

George W. Morrison is administrator with the will annexed. C. E. Weaver, J. H. Sark and E. W. Seeds were appointed appraisers.

JOHNSON DIVORCE

Mrs. Leatha Johnson of this city was granted a divorce in probate court Monday from Joseph Johnson also of here, on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. She was also restored to her maiden name of Leatha Adams.

The couple were married Aug. 19, 1924, and have no children.

CASE POSTPONED

The jury case of John Lockard of Columbus against A. J. Cook of this city which was scheduled in common pleas court for Wednesday, May 27, has been postponed indefinitely and petit jurors are not to report until summoned by Clerk of Courts Ferd M. Pickens.

The case concerns a money suit in which the plaintiff claims $700 from the defendant.

Wilbur Benon of Columbus, is the plaintiff's attorney.

TIME IS SHORT FOR ASPIRANTS TO TOSS HATS

Only Two City Offices Promise Scraps According to Announcements

JUNE 12 IS DEADLINE

Two Democrats After Mayor's Job Now

Time is getting short for those who expect to be candidates at the primary election, August 4. Declarations must be filed with Clerk of the Board of Elections, Harry E. Weill, by June 12.

So far only a few candidates have expressed their intentions of tossing their well-known fedoras into the ring in a quest for office with the treasurer's and the mayor's races being the only offices for which a contest is offered in the primary.

Three persons, Charles Fellers, George E. Hannell and William Howard have made known their intentions to run for the treasurer's job now held by Paul Helwag. The present incumbent will not be a candidate for re-election, it is understood. Lawrence J. Johnson has been rumored as another candidate for the office but as yet his formal announcement has not been forthcoming. All are Democrats.

MAYOR'S CONTEST

In the contest for mayor, B. T. Hedges, Republican, serving his third term, will again be a candidate and no one has announced himself to oppose the mayor for the nomination. On the Democratic side of the fence, William Cady and George M. Fitzpatrick, the latter a former mayor, have made known their intentions of running for the nomination.

Although he has not announced himself, it is expected Paul E. Adkins, Democrat, will again run for the nomination for city solicitor, and although she has not made an announcement, Miss Lillian Young, will be a candidate for re-election for city auditor.

It is expected that all Circleville's councilmen will run for re-election. As yet no opposition has been heard to any of the present incumbents although hardly any of them will go to the polls unopposed.

This council has been one of the busiest a city the size of Circleville has had in a long time with gas, electric, water and traction lines controversies on their hands.

Three positions on the board of education, those held by Charles H. May, president of the board, Clarence R. Barnhart, and Robert G. Colville, expire this fall and neither of these men has yet made an announcement for re-election.

NEW LAWS

Candidates for boards of education can be nominated only by petition since the primary for the nomination of such candidates is not permitted under the new Ohio law.

Townships will hold no primaries but all petitions must be filed by June 12, the same day for the primary deadline. This is the same as it has been in the past.

No primaries are held in villages under 2,000 persons unless a primary is petitioned for. The law on such petitions reads that the electors of townships or municipalities shall file with the board a petition not later than 6:30 p. m. of the 65th day preceding such election.

It is time that political parties get their candidates lined up with June 12 less than a month away.

THROAT IS CUT

Paul Mark Pusey, three-year-old son of Rev. A. E. Pusey pastor of the Nazarene church here, suffered a badly cut throat late Sunday when the auto in which he was riding with his parents struck a cow near Lancaster.

Fifteen stitches were taken in the boy's throat and he is expected to recover.

HOURS CHANGED

Beginning Wednesday, the local Postoffice will be closed at 9:30 P. M. instead of 11 P. M., as at present, George P. Foreman, announced Tuesday.

ENGLAND HELD

Russell England, 21, of Ashville has fallen a victim to the Columbus traffic war. He was arrested Sunday for driving 45 miles an hour on S. High-st.

MRS. DALTON, COLORED, DIES

Well Known Resident of This City Succumbs Monday After Long Illness

Mrs. Mary Frances Dalton, aged 52, well known woman passed away at her home, 333 E. Clinton-st., Monday at 4:15 p. m. complications causing her death after an illness of 17 months.

Mrs. Dalton was born in Ross-co Aug. 10, 1878, the daughter of John and Emma Carpenter Valentine. She was married July 16, 1896 to Edward Dalton in this city.

The husband, with three children, William, Roberta and Mary Dalton, all of this city and two brothers, Sam and Andy Valentine, survive.

She was a member of the A. M. E. church of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the church Thursday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. R. D. Grant officiating with burial in Forest cemetery by the Albaugh Co. Pall bearers will be George Cooper, William Mason, Fred Scott, John Lewis, John Jackson Sr. and John Elidge.

GUARDS SAVE TWO NEGROES

Men Rushed to Prison When 1,000 Men Try to Take Them After Attack

ATLANTA, Ga., May 18.—Two negroes, held for 12 hours from the hands of a mob at Elberton, Ga., by four companies of national guardsmen were rushed here early today to Fulton-co tower.

Cracking gunfire through the night held a mob of 1,000 men from the jail doors at Elberton where the two negroes were imprisoned. Two civilians were wounded one so seriously that amputation of a leg was being considered by physicians.

Tear gas bombs and rifle fire were used by the guardsmen to hold back the surging mob that gathered soon after the two negroes were arrested as suspects for following an attack upon a young white girl.

Two unexpected tax suggestions were made in the upper house by Senator Paul P. Yoder, (D) of Dayton during last night's session.

One proposed a gasoline tax of 10c per gallon, the proceeds to be used for highway purposes, and the other slashed the tax on private cars in two and sought to make up for the loss by increasing the tax on trucks.

Senator Yoder's scheme for taxing automobile license tags would provide the following rates: For automobiles of 25-horsepower or less, $2; for automobiles of 25 to 35 horsepower, $4; and for automobiles of horsepower above 35, $5.

Americans Presented To England's Royalty At Open Court Tonight

CHARLES A. SMITH
LONDON, May 19. — King George and Queen Mary, seated on golden thrones in the great tapestry-lined red and gold throne room of Buckingham Palace, tonight will receive twelve and fifteen hundred persons at the first of the four royal courts of the 1935 season.

Some three-score Americans, headed by Charles Gates Dawes, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, will be among those passing before the thrones at the colorful gathering, which annually grows more important as monarchies, with their attendant court life, fall before the on-rushing republicanism.

Eleven American debutantes, chosen from hundreds of applications received at the American embassy, will be presented to their Majesties by Mrs. Dawes and make the customary double courtesy to the thrones—once as they approach and again as they retire backwards from the royal presence.

It will be a wonderful night for the American girls. Magnificent uniforms worn by the representatives of the countries having diplomatic relations with Britain the glitter of jeweled orders and rare diamonds and pearls worn by marvelously dressed women, the medieval uniforms of the King's escort, and above all, the magnificence of the throne room—all will create an atmosphere of enchantment for the fortunate debs.

Joyment will be the enforced absence from the royal circle of the Prince of Wales and his younger brother, Prince George, both of whom have long standing engagements to attend public functions.

Pink roses and blue and white hydrangeas have been chosen by the Queen for the decoration of the throne room. They will be massed against the walls and high against the richly-carved window-lashes, emphasizing the priceless tapestries, gilt carvings and paintings.

Guests at tonight's court will be drawn from the most part from government, diplomatic and other official circles, as is customary at the first and second courts of the season. All the ambassadors and ministers to the court, including the Soviet ambassador, will be present.

Eleven presentations will be made by the American embassy, those to be presented to their Majesties being:

Miss Louise Behn of New York; Miss Helen Brinton of Pennsylvania; Miss Margaretta Duane of Pennsylvania; Miss Barbara Hutton of New York; Miss Adele Janke of Louisiana; Miss Edith Martin of Pennsylvania; Miss Bertha Potter Palmer of Illinois; Mrs. Ralph H. Booth of Michigan; Miss Virginia Penn of North Carolina; Miss Virginia Dawes of Illinois and Miss "Jasmin" Schoellkopf of New York.

Due to the fact the presentations to the "diplomatic court" are made in alphabetical order, the American debs will be among the first to pass before the throne.

Preceded by their family, the court and members of the cabinet, the King and Queen will enter the throne room from the state apartments at about 9:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time). Their approach will be announced by silver trumpets sounded by buglers belonging to one of His Majesty's guards regiments, and ushers will clear the way for the royal party by waving white wands of office.

King George will wear the full uniform of a field marshal of the British army, while the Queen was expected to wear a regal gown of cloth of gold. His Majesty will wear full decorations, and the Queen will wear the famous state diamonds, which include a small crown studded with precious stones.

A bodyguard formed by the honorable corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms will be on duty near the throne in their picturesque mediaeval uniforms, while lining the grand staircase and the picture gallery will be the King's bodyguard of Yeomen of the Guard.

Those to be presented to Their Majesties after passing up the grand staircase and through the state apartments, will be conducted to the state drawing room, where gentlemen ushers will instruct them in the correct procedure for the passage before the throne.

THREE ARRESTED
Hocking-co authorities are holding Allen Floyd, Raymond Cruick and Joe Holbrook for failure to stop after an accident near Logan Sunday, in which John Ward, of Columbus, was injured. The men were arrested near Tarlton after a hot automobile chase from Logan. Floyd, the driver of the car, is charged with being a parole violator from the Ohio penitentiary.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The phenomenal reception accorded the sheet music, phonograph record and radio presentations of the song "Love, Thy Magic Spell is Everywhere," introduced by Gloria Swanson in her last picture, "The Trespasser," would seem to clearly indicate that fans might do well to jot down the titles of the three songs she offers in her new United Artists talking and singing comedy, "What a Widow!" which comes to the Cliftona Theatre on Wednesday.

They are: "Love is Like a Song," "Say Ome, Cherie" and "You're The One." The three numbers were written by Vincent Youmans, the highly successful Broadway librettist, who has been responsible for such melody successes as "Hallelujah," "Tea for Two," "Sometimes I'm Happy," "More Than You Know," "The One Girl" and countless others heard in such shows as "No, No, Nanette," "Hit the Deck," "Great Day," "Wildflower" and "Rainbow."

A SPRING TRAGEDY

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XLVIII.

OLD Chief Fury, adipose with years and soft living, stamped in and began to bluster. It was some time before anyone could make out what he was trying to say. Then it became clear that he was ordering the immediate arrest of Robert Trent for the murder of the Baroness Von Wiese.

Walter listened for a time, the stubborn line showing about his chin.

Out Of The Question

"Trent is a sick man, Chief. Out of the question to bring him in here tonight. He's under guard. You're telling me, are you? I'm chief of police in this town!"

"Oh, tell him," Bim cried, "to wait till morning. Tell him, Walter, that we'll have the real murderer by morning!"

The old Chief glared at her. "If this young fellow brings in a killer and it's not Bob Trent I'll—why, I'll quit! What do you think of that, eh? Quit, I said. Quit cold. Eh, what do you think of that?"

"Okay, Chief," Reynolds put in, grinning. "No backing down. We're your witnesses. And what do YOU think of that?"

"Eh?" muttered the Chief, his face going purple. Reynolds nodded to Bim—Walter, and there was a general movement among them. Bim went away almost light hearted. The old Chief had been wanting an out, he mused; he had it now. Would Reynolds would see that he did. Reynolds would spread the story; he would make the Chief a laughing stock otherwise.

Only it depended upon her. She was the one who had boasted that the real murderer would be brought in before noon tomorrow. Perhaps Walter did not believe this could be done. Perhaps, all things considered, it could not be done!

Bim went to her room at Eagle's Nest and sat there a long time in deep thought. Certain things stood out; faded photographs of a baby's face; Jane and William dancing together at the Novel City Inn; heel marks on the torn note she had found in the garden.

She went over the murder mystery step by step, trying to imagine herself as the guilty person. What would she have done exactly had she wished to remove a woman who had aroused her jealousy to the point of murderous frenzy? Sneaked into the garden—watched behind the rose vines. Rose vines were full of thorns and thorns tore a woman's flesh.

Bim turned on a little, winking smile. "I hope I didn't hurt you that night outside the dressing room. You see I went in there to practice dancing; hard to give that up. No one was about and I didn't think Imogene would hear the noise."

"But how did you get in there?" Bim asked. "And out again?"

"Oh, that was easy enough; I've never been out of training. The transome, you know. And it wasn't much of a jump to the balcony outside the linen room window."

Bim visited the station house early in the evening. Standing at salute before the desk, she called gaily, "Hello, Chief!"

"See," remarked Walter, grinning rather sheepishly. "You've heard the news. Poor old Fury—he hated to let go."

"Time he did, though. Poor Jane, I said. What will they do with her, Walter? Not—where'll be no conviction. Not after the jury listens to what she has to say. Deland has got the best defense lawyer in New York for her. You know they'd made up. Plan to live happily ever after as soon as she's turned loose."

Bim looked at him steadily, her eyes very bright. And presently she got up and came around in front of the desk. He stood there close to her, waiting.

"Walter? Walter, dear—"

"Where's Carey?" he asked with just an edge to his tone. "Can't you forget him, darling? I did long ago. You see—"

His arms were around her and there was plenty of reason for nothing being said for a long while. Then he took time to inquire, "How soon?"

"Well, I sort of like the sound of Mrs. Chief of Police. Would—would a month from today be all right?"

"It would not! Too far off. Make it a week from today, sweetheart!"

Bim breathed happily. "Yes!"

my chance—and expose her. Bring disgrace on her—poverty. She'd have hated that worse than death. Plenty of opportunities for this, but I always felt a better one would come.

"Then we came here. I didn't know Wilkes was here. I saw them together in the dining room. Wilkes didn't care for her any more. He told me this—that he thinks he never cared for her really. But I didn't know; not till after I found it. I found the note she wrote him. I watched and saw them go into the garden."

Vengeance

Bim had a vision of this woman, garbing herself for the purpose in an outworn nurse's dress. A white dress, and this was a mistake. Tearing the dress on the rose vines, suffering cuts and scratches from the thorns. Burning the dress later, hiding the shoes she wore. Of course the low-heeled, shapeless shoes were a camouflage.

Moved to insanity by the sight of the two together—the woman who had wrecked her home and the faithful husband whom she still loved. Waiting till the husband left the woman alone before pulling the trigger which ended for all time a glittering ruin-dealing career.

Jane turned on Bim a little, winking smile. "I hope I didn't hurt you that night outside the dressing room. You see I went in there to practice dancing; hard to give that up. No one was about and I didn't think Imogene would hear the noise."

"But how did you get in there?" Bim asked. "And out again?"

"Heliotherapy" Dates Back to the Ancients

Greeks and Romans Recognized the Healing Properties of the Sun's Rays, Writes Dr. Copeland, So Take Advantage of the Sunshine Season

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

THE ancients looked upon the sun as a god. Worship of the sun was known long before the dawn of the Christian era. Not only did the barbarian races pay homage to the sun, but this practice was carried on in cultured Egypt.

Ancient records tell that the father-in-law of King Tut issued a decree that all other gods were to be forgotten. Everybody must worship the sun god, Ra. New temples and a new city were erected to the honor of this god.

As we go on in history, we note that the Greeks and Romans did not worship the sun, but they did appreciate its health-giving properties. "Heliotherapy," or the healing of disease by the sun, was practiced by Hippocrates, Father of Medicine, as early as the Fourth Century, B. C.

In the works of Cicero there is a description of sun buildings attached to the villas outside of Rome. These structures were similar to the solarium now found at the top of most modern sanatoriums.

With the advent of the Christian era, worship of the sun fell into disrepute. It is only within recent years that the value of the sun's rays has been recognized. No longer is it worshipped as a god, but its therapeutic and health-building properties are recognized by all. Sun baths are exceedingly popular and have greatly aided in the treatment of rickets, the value of sunlight cannot be overestimated. Even though the diet may be somewhat deficient in vitamin D, the presence of abundant sunlight will prevent or cure this disease.

It has been known for many years that the rays of the sun, on passing through a paneled window, are deprived of many of their curative values. Within recent years window glass has been manufactured which is believed to eliminate this objection.

The rays of the sun are of the greatest value when uninterrupted in their passage to the body. It is for this reason that Rollier, in Switzerland, and many other specialists in tuberculosis, have recommended the exposure of tubercular children to the direct rays of the sun.

These children are allowed to run around in the sun, scantily clad, and constantly exposed to its penetrating rays. This custom is continued all through the winter months. It is most amazing to see these children, almost unclad, running around in the deep snow.

The results obtained have been almost miraculous. Much credit must be given to our good friend, the sun.

Answers to Health Queries

M. K. Q.—What causes one to sleep with the mouth open?

A.—This may be due to adenoids or other nasal obstruction.

T. A. L. Q.—What is the cause of my legs becoming numb?

2.—Can you advise treatment for the relief of hay fever?

A.—You are probably troubled with poor circulation due to run-down state of health. Try to build up your entire system and you will probably notice improvement. For other information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. E. M. Q.—What is the cause of a sharp pain just below my heart?

2.—How can I gain in weight?

A.—It is possible that this condition is caused by "gas" due to faulty diet. Correct your diet. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

F. L. Q.—What causes white spots on the finger nails?

2.—Why have I not gained weight after taking cod liver oil for three months?

A.—This may be due to an injury. 2.—You should weigh about 125 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height. A few pounds above or below the average is of little or no significance.

2.—Continue taking cod liver oil.

M. J. T. Q.—What will reduce a slightly protruding abdomen?

A.—Try reducing in general. Bending exercises are helpful.

A. E. L. Q.—What should a girl of 25, 5 feet 3 inches weigh?

2.—How can I reduce weight?

A.—She should weigh about 125 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. 2.—Reduce the amount of food eaten at each meal and eat only meal times. Eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Get regular systematic exercise.

MISS A. C. H. Q.—What fruits should be avoided by a patient troubled with acidity?

A.—Most fruits become alkaline in their final reaction in the system, however each case is different and should be treated accordingly. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Oils Sweep On Drubbing Cokes

Circleville Oils need to defeat Grocers Wednesday to keep through the first round of the recreation league schedule without a defeat. The Oils, after coming from behind to defeat Frank Lynch and his Coca Colas, Monday evening, have now met and defeated every team in the league twice except the Indian aggregation whom they met and beat once.

Frank Lynch, on the hill for the first time this year, pitched creditable ball for his aggregation but failure of his support to stand the gruff caused his downfall. Lynch gave out six hits and walked nary a batter, while Purcell for the Oils gave nine bingles. The difference in the contest might be found in the error column where 12 were charged to the pop-shoppers and five to the Oils-men.

The Cokes started with a run in the opening frame and came back with three more in the third while the Oils were being held safe. Then in the fourth with two timely hits combined with three errors, the Oils pushed three runs over the platter. They came back in the fifth with two more and tallied twice again in the seventh.

Scott with two hits led the Oils winners, while Geb with three safeties and Davis and Wilson, each with two bingles led the loser's at the plate.

Cum Robinson and Bill Pickens unimpaired.

Confidence Of Cards Is Factor

NEW YORK—Gaby Street's St. Louis Cardinals are traveling at a terrific clip. With the season a month old, they were leading the field in the National League pennant race and playing with such nonchalant assurance that rival managers have reached the conclusion that they are the club that "has got to be stopped."

"Just breezing along," tells the story of the Cards in a single phrase. Take them on May 11. They had won fourteen games and lost only three, for a percentage of .824. Counting the Cardinals' great finish last year, they had won 51 of their last 65 National League ball games—which should be a record of some kind.

On August 9 last season they started winning. They came up comet-like from the second division, passing the New York Giants, Brooklyn Robins and Chicago Cubs in the home stretch to capture the flag. And when the season opened this year they continued their victorious ways to such an extent that they have become the most feared team in the league.

Manager Street admits he has a great pitching staff—probably the best in the circuit. He claims he has nine hurlers who can win in the majors. He has been working five regulars in rotation, Bill Hallahan, Burleigh Grimes, Jess Haines, Sylvester Johnson and Flint Rhem. In addition he has Jim Lindsey, Paul Derringer, Allyn Stout and Tony Kautmann. He had another good one, too, in the cocky Dizzy Dean but he had to let somebody go so he optioned Dean to Houston. The first day Dean showed up in Houston he pitched a shutout. He may be recalled.

Then, too, the Cardinals have that confidence and class that a club invariably displays in the season that follows their winning of a pennant. Their's is a powerful line up, what with Jimmy Wilson and Mancuso available for backstop work; John Bottomley, who is going great this season, at first, the "money player," Frankie Frisch at second; the classy Gilbert at short and Adams at third. In the outfield, there are Watkins in right, Douthitt in center and Harey in left, with Orsatti and Martin available for relief duty in the outposts. They also have plenty of good infield reserve material.

A club of such a caliber, tested by the fire of world series competition, is hard to beat and all around the National League circuit the rival managers are finding this to be a fact. "Stop the Cardinals!" is the cry that already has swept the circuit because it is evident they are going places. Not since the days of the Stallings' Boston Braves of 1914 has a club shown the winning consistency of the Cardinals when their record of all the tail end of last year and what they have accomplished so far this year is considered.

Competent baseball critics say the new ball will have a decided effect on the winning of the pennant this year. And it is generally conceded that the Cards have been helped by the solid ball. The new ball's raised stitches permit pitchers to get a better hold of it. Besides, the umpires permit balls that have become soiled to remain in the game. This makes the balls harder to hit. The new ball has increased the effectiveness of Jess Haines' knuckler. Syl Johnson, who always had a great fire ball, now finds himself with a good curve. Rhem has started winning and Grimes and Hallahan can pitch for any man's team. The result is that Manager Street is in the enviable position of having five splendid starting pitchers and a class fielding and hitting team to back them up.

St. Louis has been winning these close one-run margin games, which is always a sign of a team with class. If something isn't done about those Cards soon, the rival managers will begin to fume and fret. Manager John J. McGraw's New York Giants are making a valiant bid to keep up on the heels of the Cards, but the latter are stepping so fast it is becoming a mighty difficult task.

REVIVE RING GAME IN CITY

Frank Davis and Ben Gordon Ready to Open Their Recreation Center Friday.

Boxing, regarded as the most competitive of all sports, will be revived in Circleville Friday evening.

This announcement, forthcoming Tuesday from a group of local sportsmen, insures a splendid sports program for local residents during the summer months as the sponsoring organization plans bringing here fighters of top notch ability.

These fistic carnivals, to be staged semi-monthly, will be conducted under the supervision of the Everts Amusement Co.

This organization is comprised of Frank Davis, former sheriff, and Benny Gordon, local merchant. Gordon and Davis plan staging splendid bouts here. As an evidence of their sincerity, they have caused to be constructed the fine new outdoor arena, now being put in spic and span condition on the plot of ground directly opposite the Corwin-st school house.

It is also planned that a miniature golf course, tennis and horse-shoe courts, will be added on adjacent property, making this one of the most ideal community sports centers in Ohio.

The arena is large enough to comfortably seat 600 persons. A goodly portion of these seats will be reserved and tickets for them will be available in advance. The moderate price of fifty cents will prevail for all shows.

To insure the very best caliber of fights, Davis and Gordon are attempting to acquire the services of Tim Nolan, successful Columbus fight promoter, as matchmaker here.

Roland Paeyer, Holyoke, (16).

Frankie Carlton, Jersey City, defeated Jerry Emard, Holyoke, (8).

At Boston, Johnny Indrisano, Boston welterweight, defeated Ben Bruce, Buffalo, N. Y., (10).

At Miami, Fla., Jose Estrada, Mexican junior lightweight, knocked out Bruno Ladrail, Denver, (5).

Last Night's Fights

At Milwaukee, Lou Scozza, Buffalo won technical knockout from Tzit Littman, Cudahy in seventh round.

At Chicago—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago lightweight knocked out Jimmy Munsell, Milwaukee (2).

Sammy Levine, featherweight, Chicago, defeated Joey Rosax, Roseland in 6 rounds.

At Pittsburgh, Jackie Kid Berg, English lightweight, defeated Ray Kisser, Tulsa, Okla., (10).

At New York, Dave Adelman, Philadelphia 123-pounder, defeated Sam Sanchez, Mexico (6).

Walter Cobb, Baltimore heavyweight, knocked out Al Walker, New York (1).

Bert Paxton, Detroit, defeated Joe Hanlon, New York (6).

At Toronto, Charley Belanger, Toronto light heavyweight, defeated Pete Latzo, Scranton, Pa., (8).

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED

A stick of soft wood about two feet long and one inch thick, two strips of paper with the ends pasted together forming loops, two sharp knives and a piece of hardwood, or an iron poker, are the paraphernalia needed for this trick. Have two persons stand about three feet apart and hold the knives extended. Place the paper strips over the lower ends of the knives and suspend the two-foot stick through the sharp edges of the paper loops. Stand off and strike the stick a sharp blow in the center with the piece of hardwood or the iron poker, and it will break in two. In many instances it has been known that the paper does not even tear.

Thankful for the Wonders of Malva

As thousands of others have found, Samuel Barge, 714 Washington Avenue, Newport, Ky., discovered in MALVA a medicine he could put his confidence in.

"Surely no one could hope to benefit more than I benefited by taking the MALVA treatment. I think I must have suffered every symptom known of in a weak and run-down condition. I never believed it possible for any medicine to give the splendid results that MALVA has given me, and you can be sure I shall be glad to broadcast the merits of this wonderful medicine to everyone whom I know."

as necessary in the national pocket-book as it is in the national mental attitude."

"We have had an avalanche of critics; critics of governmental administration, critics of business organization, critics of moral standards, critics of everything in the world, that because of its importance in our social and economical setup, attracts general attention."

"I believe one of the best things we could do as a nation at the present time, would be to subject the critics themselves to a certain amount of criticism: Their tendencies have been to tear down, and yet they have offered nothing in the way of how to rebuild."

"They have succeeded in getting us nervous without making us work."

"Students of business have been making one gross mistake in their study of general conditions in retailing. They have made comparisons with previous years on the basis of dollar and cent volume. They have been singularly unmindful of the fact that commodity prices have shrunk, in some cases up to 50 per cent."

"I have yet failed to find any well organized retail outlet in which the gross sales volume in dollars and cents has shrunk to a degree commensurate with the shrinkage in commodity prices."

"The yard stick on retail sales volume is fully as much one of number of items sold as it is one of dollars and cents volume. Naturally profit comes from dollar and cent volume, but number of items sold is still an accurate barometer on general buying activity. The wise merchant is setting his standards of operation to accord with the new measure adopted by the buying public."

"A study of savings banks in leading banking centers, shows a most unusual amount of money being deposited. It may or may not be the best policy for the individual, during the times of economic readjustment, to put all his money into savings. It depends on whether he can get better net returns through interest paid savings bank, or through increased activity based on increased buying with its authentic upward influence on pay-rolls."

"It has been said that people can save themselves out of a job almost as easily as they can save themselves into financial security. The hoarding of money for the sake of accumulation of the money itself has never been constructive to national financial welfare."

"The intelligent spending of money, changing it into productive work has never failed to bring increased manufacturing and selling activity."

HOG BREEDERS SHOULD TAKE PRECAUTION AGAINST CHOLERA

The season is now at hand when it is very important for the hog raiser to take the precaution of insuring his pig crop against the worst disease hazard, hog cholera. Each year hog producers throw out the corn belt lose thousands of dollars through hog cholera infection. This malady may be effectively avoided through proper immunization of pigs and the spring pig crop has now reached the most satisfactory weight for treatment. They are large enough to provide complete immunization and still small enough to reduce the cost of the treatment to the farmer. Early reports of hog cholera outbreaks have already been made. Proper immunization administered by a competent veterinarian is the cheapest insurance which can be taken out by the pork producer.

Some farmers question the cost and take their own chances. This plan usually results in severe losses in sacrificing shoats only partially finished and actual losses incurred by the victims of the malady.

Hog prices on April 15th, were only 9 per cent under pre-war prices. While the farm price of feed grains on the same date was 26 per cent below pre-war prices. A review of the hog situation shows that we saved one per cent less last year than one year ago and had 2 per cent less hogs in the country January 1st, 1931 than the year before. It is reported that 3.8 per cent of hogs were slaughtered under federal inspection during the last four months. It would appear that we are short of hogs, however, with large numbers of hogs in Europe, the outlook for export demand is none too rosy. With wheat cheap enough to be fed instead of marketed as a cash crop, many farmers no doubt will feed their spring pigs out on wheat instead of waiting for new corn. It may be encouraging to know that last Saturday, May 9th, a packer agreed to pay $7.50 per hundred for 25 carloads of heavy hogs, to be delivered to him in September. The grain and hog ratio would indicate that for the livestock farmer who immunizes his pig crop and feeds them a good growing ration, supplemented by tankage, which is cheap, should cash his pig crop economically.

PROBATE COURT BUSINESS DOWN

Business in probate court appears to be decreasing according to a report submitted to Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state by Judge E. A. Brown for the year beginning April 1, 1930, and ending March 31, 1931. The report was compiled by Mrs. Lillian Giffen and Miss Mary Foreman, deputies in probate court.

This year there were 243 marriage licenses secured from this bureau, representing a decrease of 36, according to last year's record. August was the largest month in the last fiscal year when 30 licenses were secured, while June, the month of brides, topped all months on last year's report, with 34 permits to wed.

Other information contained in the report was as follows:

Twenty letters of guardianship; last year 17;
Sixty-two wills admitted; 64 last year;
Sixty-one letters of testamentary; 54 last year;
Sixty letters of administration; 80 last year;
One hundred and twenty one estates administered upon; 140 last year;
Nine insane persons sent to Athens State hospital; 12 last year;
Three persons sent to Gallopis hospital; one last year;
Five boys sent to Industrial School; four last year;
Two girls sent to Girls' Industrial School; seven last year.

The fire loss in the United States during 1930 totaled $465,000,000 which amount is 10 per cent greater than in 1929. The Nashua (N. H.) blaze, which destroyed 300 buildings, was last year's biggest fire.

MAGAZINES PRAISE ELEMENTARY ISSUE

A number of recent publications including both International Quill and Scroll and Ohio Schools magazines for May carry stories lauding the new Elementary Red and Black appearing every Wednesday as a joint project of the Circleville high school journalism class and the Circleville Herald. "Interesting new venture," "increases circulation," "rejuvenating influence in newspaperdom," "inspirational," "illustrates fine spirit of the profession when older heads pause in their labors of publication to lend a hand and give the beginners a boost in their first advent into the field," are a few terms used.

This class and its instructor J. W. Fetherlin, have been engaged in numerous other journalistic activities during the year.

Here is a partial list:

Clean Up and Paint Up

The Time to Fight Fire Is Before the Flame Starts

The average home-owner does not realize how many dangerous fire traps there are around and about his home. Accumulations of rubbish, trash, old newspapers and other inflammable material, beneath basement steps, under the back porch in the attic, are direct causes of fires.

Crusade against the fire menace, not only for your own sake but for the community. A few minutes during this week, spent in cleaning out all trash and useless rubbish will do more to lower the national fire loss than anything else. You owe it to yourself.

Only those who have seen their precious homes crumble into dust and blackened timber can fully realize such conflagrations—and sometimes with loss of life.

Clean Up and Paint

One of the Ugliest Words in the World

Night! Everybody in bed and the little home dreaming, all unconscious of any peril. And then, sharply, there rises on the misty air that one, terrible word—"FIRE!"

A mother snatches her child from its crib and staggers down the smoke-plumed stairs. A father drags them to safety, and, hours later, they look upon all that is left of what was once "HOME." Regrets are of no avail now.

In so many important ways, you, in your own home, can prevent such occurrences as this. Handle matches with great care, using flashlights when possible. Clean up in attic and cellar. Burn trash the moment a little of it collects. Have that basement as tidy as human hands can make it. Use every known protective measure, such as fire extinguishers, that fires, starting in a small way, can be vanquished. Place precious documents and other valuables in fire-proof boxes, cabinets, etc. And know the calm assurance of policies which will pay you back, if Fire comes in some mysterious and unforeseen manner.

WILLIAMSPORT ALUMNI BANQUET
The annual Williamsport high school alumni banquet was held Saturday evening at the school building. The high school orchestra played as the members and their guests assembled.
At the conclusion of a delicious dinner, John H. Dunlap, Jr., alumni president for 1931 presented the toastmaster of the evening, Attorney James H. Eymon, of Marion, who was a member of the first graduating class of Williamsport school. Several responses were given by former graduates. Superintendent H. J. Bowers introduced the class of 1931 into the association, and Russell McDill gave the class a cordial welcome. Rev. C. Swearingen also gave a short talk. The occasion, which also celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the school was a very beautiful affair. Much charm was added by the decorative features. Large bouquets of green leaves formed a low canopy above the tables where the honored guests were seated, while the graduates of former Cast A will present the first act, cast B the second, and the veterans will decide which cast will give the last act.

The play is directed by J. W. Fetherlin.

MIDGETS WIN COMPLIMENTS
An act that has raved in practically all the large cities in the United States and before noted audiences in Europe, the Slinger Midgets playing at the Grand Theater for the last time tonight offer a varied and most interesting program.
The opening of their act finds the Midget Band under the able leadership of Carl Florian playing popular jazz numbers with a vim that is found in the country's leading orchestras. Fritz Tarbala, intersperses the musical numbers with a magic act that makes him look like a Houdini. The dancing Policemen are able dancers and perfectly costumed offer a clever act.
The master of ceremonies, Whitey Berk, can make the piano talk and gives several selections and offers one selection of whistling and piano playing with one hand. He whistles as well as he plays the piano.
They also carry a singing duck with the troupe and this duck cleverly comes in with his part while the orchestra plays.
Carl Florian takes the lead in a clever song and dance act that wins hearty applause.
The Fox Hunt, with the midgets gayly costumed and every one on apt toe dancer present a very interesting scene, acted to the music of the Midget Band. This act is one of the supreme parts of the show. Nita Krebs' plays the leading part in the Fox Hunt and is a clever toe dancer.
Then the three trained elephants, under the capable handling of Carl Becker entertain the youngsters as well as the grown ups.
This is followed by 18 midgets costumed as Penguins and present a well balanced and interesting act. The Merry Widow waltz was well received by the audience Monday night and Fritz Tarbala and Nita Krebs proved themselves real dancers.
Their act closes with the "Little Amazons" with gay costumes, clever dancing and a fine closing chorus.
It is well worth anybody's time to see these midgets before they leave Circleville for such an act can seldom be seen in a town the size of Circleville.
Well, Cermak, Al is still at large.

"WHAT A WIDOW"

Saturday Is Poppy Day
The little red memorial Poppies which disabled World War veterans have been making through the winter and spring, will be sold in Circleville Saturday. The purpose of the Poppy sale is twofold, first to honor the war dead by wearing the Poppy which grows on the fields of France and Flanders where they fell, and second, to aid the living victims of the war, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.
The money received for these Poppies marked with the tag, "Veteran made, sold by the American Legion Auxiliary," is used to help these needy veterans and their families. Each year these men plead that they be allowed to make more Poppies, but the number they manufacture is limited by the sale in each town. This is the opportunity of every citizen to help solve one of the biggest problems of the day and to share a part of this responsibility of welfare service for the disabled by so little effort as the purchase of a paper Poppy.
No matter who you are or what you do, if you have your health, it is your biggest asset in life, and so while we are honoring the memory of those who have fought their last battle, the American Legion Auxiliary is not forgetting those who must still fight for their health. The Poppy is not only a tribute to those boys whom we will never forget, but benefits these men and their children who are still paying the price for their service in 1917-1918.
As you pin the Poppy on your coat do it reverently remembering that those little red petals symbolize the lives of the flower of our country that were given that you and I might continue to enjoy freedom.
Mrs. Paul Betz, child welfare chairman of the Auxiliary, reports the expenditure of $200.45 of the Poppy money from last year.

Friendship is the shadow of the evening which strengthens with the setting of the sun of life—La Fontaine.
Can extra freezing speed for ice cubes he had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food.)
One of Kelvinator's greatest achievements in electric refrigeration are the Iso-Thermic Tubes—the feature which is responsible for the World's Fastest Freezing Speed that is held by Kelvinator. Its operation is automatic; requires no adjustments; and it does not affect the temperature in the other compartments of the cabinet. This unique feature is the outstanding feature development in the industry in the last five years, and it belongs to Kelvinator, to YOU alone.
Two little urchins stood with their noses pressed against John Drum's barber shop window. "Gee, Mickey, look at that one," said one, pointing to Tom Drum, as he wielded a singing taper. "He's lookin' for 'em with a light."
One day last week we received one of the best values in spring-filled mattresses that it has been our privilege to offer to our read-

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Walker, of W. Mound-st. are visiting relatives in Indianapolis and Carthage, Ind.
Mrs. Mary Morgan and daughter Margaret visited in Columbus over the week-end.
Mr. and Mrs. Harley Noggle, of E. Main-st. were Columbus visitors Tuesday.
Durward Dowden, Howard Selvenson, Phil Welmer, Robert Maloney, and Byron Frederic, saw the demonstration of the Army Air Corps in Dayton Sunday.

OUR "ON THE UP AND UP" SOCIETY
Last week, as we were admiring our weekly literary labor, the thought occurred to us—what a swell idea for a local club.
And that, dear children, was the founding of a new club, "On the Up and Up," a society for the suppression of that devil, Depression.
You're invited to join as a charter member. No dues, no meetings, no initiation fee—Your only obligation is that when somebody says to you, "How are things going?" you smile instead of weep, and say, "On the up and up."
Come in—we'll show you the technic. We've tried it already, and while we haven't heard anybody screaming with gratitude, it's a lot easier than sitting on the mourner's bench.

"WHAT A WIDOW"

Mrs. H. A. Woodhouse and daughters, of Cincinnati are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McFadden of Watt-st.
Miss Mary Welch is home for the summer vacation at her home on E. Main-st. Miss Welch has been teaching at Caledonia, O.
Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Reichelderfer of Tarilton and Mrs. Russell Selgwald and sons Paul and Leonard motored to Portsmouth, Sunday, to visit Russell Selgwald, who is a patient in the General hospital there.
If man is displaced as ruler of the world, as a scientist prophesies, it will be by woman.

ers. It's a product of that reliable mattress firm—The Stearns & Foster Co., with whom we have done business for the past fifteen years. It is covered in a beautiful damask covering, with long staple cotton cushioning, with Insulo pad over the finely tempered spring unit. There is no chance for the springs to work through, nor to become tangled. The edges of the mattress are beautifully quilted, with handles and ventilators. It was intended to be sold for $43.50, but you may have it for only $38.50. Until you sleep upon one of our better inner-spring mattresses, supported by a De Luxe spring, you won't know what a good bed is like.
This is good moth weather. No need to worry if you protect your woolen goods and furniture with Key-Spray. We have it in quart tins.
This certainly is good news for the housewife that does not have natural gas for cooking and baking. Pyrofax has fallen in price. It is $2.00 per tank lower than it has been. This means quite a reduction in fuel bills for Mrs. Cary Brown, Mrs. Luther Churtz, and Mrs. Ralph White. It means that our new users will find gas cooking and baking costs have been reduced so low that they will not think of bothering with coal, wood, gasoline, or kerosene. If a tank of Pyrofax will last a family but three months (and Mrs. White cooked and baked for, she and Mr. White for 51 weeks on two tanks, or an average of almost six months to a tank) the cost per day would be but 13.3c, or only 44c per meal. Who wants to bother with other fuels when they can get this convenient fuel without odor or smoke, and instant heat the moment that the match is applied, for so little cost? And the investment is small, from $112.50 up. Better look into this and be ready for the summer.

here and ready for you. Order one sent home and then you'll begin to enjoy life.
We had a new member in our gas range family last week. It is beautifully finished in Green Marble and Ivory enamel, with insulated oven, and with heat regulator and we'll deliver it to you. It is connected by connecting gas lines and flue to your check for $88.88. Now you you traders, who'll "swap?"
Well, well, we've been supplying home furnishings to you folks for fifteen years. We had a birthday Friday, and hope to have many more as time rolls along. We enjoy furnishing homes. It does not seem like that many years, let it's true.
In addition to the reduced price of Pyrofax gas mentioned, we are also glad that we can announce a reduction of price in equipment. Now then, you folks that have been wanting to modernize your kitchen, here's your opportunity to get away from gasoline, kerosene, coal and wood. Country folks can now enjoy the use of gas just the same as their city cousins.
Wayne Hoover, and George Shook, two distinguished tillers of the soil, met. Wayne said to George, "George, I've got a mul that has distemper. What'd you give that one of yours when I had it?" George told him, "A pentine," and departed. A later they met again. George, I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him." "Killed mine, too, Wayne."

TO INSPECT BEES
At the regular meeting of the county commissioners Monday $300 was appropriated by the board to be used for the inspection of bees in the county.
It is expected that Carl Hunsicker of Williamsport, will make the inspection.
The state of Ohio has also given the same amount as the county for this work, making a total of $600.
Any member of the family of W. H. Nelson, 718 S. Court-st. invited to be a guest of The Herald at the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.
